TIROLER GOLDSCHMIED

From a One-Man Business to a Renowned Design Studio

A point of reference among goldsmiths in South Tyrol and beyond: Tiroler Goldschmied. Founded as a one-man business in Merano by Eusebius Gamper in 1969, the small goldsmith's workshop has developed into an internationally renowned company with twenty team members and five branch stores in Dorf Tirol, Schenna, Merano and Quellenhof Luxury Resort. Today, it has clients from far beyond the national borders.

Already in 1971, Gamper moved from Merano to Dorf Tirol and continued to expand his business there, soon supported by his wife Margareth and then by their children. Exquisite one-of-a-kind pieces, masterly crafted, became his trademark. The company is an authentic family business, which largely contributes to its success. The passion for superb jewellery and innovative design was passed on to the next generation. All four children are part of the business, each of them a qualified and skilled professional.

Be they goldsmiths, jewellery designers, European gemologists, or diamond experts, each member of the family has his or her individual strengths and main areas and is given the personal freedom needed to make an own contribution.

The experience and ideas of two generations form an exciting basis for the creation of inspired, unique pieces of jewellery! No matter whether rare objects are integrated or an extravagant design is realised, from the design to the finished piece, everything is done in the Tiroler Goldschmied studio.

The many national and international awards are a wonderful confirmation of the quality of Tiroler Golschmied jewellery. In Japan (Kobe), Eusebius Gamper and his son Hannes were the only non-Asians who were able to collect points among 700 jewellery designers and their designs. The latest success stories: as the winner of the Italian Tahitian Pearl Trophy competition, Tiroler Goldschmied represented Italy, and Thomas Gamper won the title of vice world champion 2009 among the goldsmiths at the Worldskills Competition in Calgary (Canada).

International recognition encourages the family to continue to blaze new paths. Thus, in April 2010 they opened Italy's first wedding jewellery store with VIP service. Tiroler Goldschmied has developed four collections: the annual designer jewellery collection, the wedding jewellery, the exclusive Tiroler Goldschmied "Haute Jewellery" line and Tiroler Goldschmied folk costume and hunting garb collection. They were presented at various trade fairs in Salzburg, Dortmund, Munich, Seefeld and Bolzano. In autumn 2010 the diamond-studded falconry hoods were featured for the first time at the world's largest falconry fair in Abu Dhabi – they caused quite a sensation. The international press paid enormous attention to this novelty. Of course, the collections of other international jewellery manufacturers, watches from leading brands, and young designs will continue to be carried in the Tiroler Goldschmied stores.

The four branch stores, too, are creative and modern in style, both aesthetic and functional, in line with the precious objects sold here as well as with the professional and private attitude of the family.
